Dear Parents & Carers

It is good to be back, and I hope that you had a decent break over Easter.

Over the holiday period, HM Queen Camilla made some excellent statements about the importance of reading. The Queen has a far better grip of the importance of reading than some of our politicians. In schools, we know it's great for a pupils' imagination, a sense of purpose and literacy. The side effect is that reading makes a significant contribution to academic success; human knowledge and understanding is conveyed in writing. One major reason for the academic success of this school is our insistence that children read books in their own time. We check too.

Last night we marked the successes and achievements of our current Year 11 cohort, who have epitomised the College mantra 'nothing but our best'. We hope they carry this mantra with them as they continue their chosen paths in life and wish them every success in their upcoming GCSEs.

Issues regarding our children and their interactions on social media have been much talked about in the press recently and calls from both individuals and organisations such as the NSPCC are getting louder. Should you wish to learn more, this article highlights some of the current concerns:

Nine-year-olds added to malicious WhatsApp groups - BBC News

I would also like to draw your attention to our social media awareness evening on 25th April at 6.00pm. This will be open to all parents within Chulmleigh Academy Trust. At our last social media awareness evening, parents seemed to be very pleased to have attended because they knew that they needed advice about the problems associated with social media and good advice was provided. We were asked if we would run another evening and I do hope you can mark this date and attend if you can.

With best wishes

Michael Johnson, Executive Headteacher

safeguarding is everyone's responsibility

Supporting parents or carers to help their children use the internet safely

"I'm not a Police Officer, and most definitely not a Tech expert. In fact, I'm a bit like you, a parent who wants to make my child's use of the internet as safe as possible"
(Jon Galling, Senior Education Safeguarding Officer for Devon County Council and deliverer of this workshop)

The session is designed not to scare or intimidate, but to reflect and review what the dangers of the online or virtual world are and how, as parents and carers we can help our children navigate the challenges they will face.

The session will help those attending to:

- Understand the risks and some ways in which these can be managed
- Understand the benefits of technology including as support for mental health and wellbeing
- Know where to go to find practical support
- Consider how to support your child navigate their 'virtual world'

Year 7 Art Work - Inspired by Henry Matisse

Year 7 have been exploring colour alongside geometric shapes and organic shapes. Inspired by Henri Matisse's paper cut outs, the pupils' collages are bright and bold. They selected their own colour palettes using watercolour and acrylic paint and spent time practicing their painting skills using flat blocks of colour. Some exciting work from a lively and vibrant year group! Fantastic work Year 7!

Chulmleigh College's Unsung Heroes

This week we would like to put the spotlight on Mrs Stevens, one of our Pupil Support Officers.

On a day-to-day basis pupils access the Pupil Support Office for any number of reasons that vary from a cut knee to a lost bag. It is through the Pupil Support Office that the safety net of our pastoral care provision is offered, and the provision is open to pupils who need it throughout the day (although for non-emergencies pupils attend at break and lunchtimes). Mrs Stevens has worked at the College since 2022 and is well liked by our pupils. Mrs Stevens cares for and supports pupils not only when they are in need but also to share in their successes. The College is a complex organisation with many moving parts and the Pupil Support Team ensure that the pastoral needs of our pupils are attended to with care, discretion and support. The best care we can offer is a first-class education and we are fortunate to have two dedicated colleagues who help to ensure our pupils are supported beyond the classroom.

"One of the things I like about Chulmleigh College is the dedication and hard work all staff bring to their roles. The support given to every pupil to help them achieve their goals highlights the standards we have here. What I love most about my role is simply being there to help pupils whether it is just reuniting a lost item or making their day just that bit brighter by listening and helping with problems they might be having.

I am very proud of the pupils at Chulmleigh College and all the effort they put in to achieving the most of their time in school." Mrs Stevens, Pupil Support Officer

Shakespeare in Schools Festival—Macbeth

This week we have received a wonderful write-up, by director Holly Meechan, of the Year 10 production of Macbeth at the Barnfield Theatre, as part of the Shakespeare in School's Festival. This is well deserved praise and reflects the hard work of both the pupils and staff involved. Well done!

'Something wicked this way comes'

Macbeth
by Chulmleigh Community College at The Barnfield Theatre , 14/3/24
appraised by Holly Meechan

Congratulations Chulmleigh Community College for your fantastic reimagining of Macbeth as part of the Spring 24 Shakespeare Schools Festival. It was a thrilling night of theatre, and I'd like to shine a spotlight on some aspects I really loved.

There is so much to celebrate to about this production but what I loved most is how you truly made it your own. You modernised the story and added in some of your own contemporary text which was well-written and slotted in with Shakespeare seamlessly. Your opening press conference scene made for an exciting start and was a clever way to introduce the characters; presenting Macduff and his family here in this way also made their murder later all the more impactful.

The music in your piece was outstanding, what a gift to have such a skilled group of musicians providing the soundtrack to your play. You used the music to build and release tension at all the right moments which really supported the actors and the story. The Lullaby sung by Macduff's wife was also a great choice, the innocence beauty and simplicity of it juxtaposed against the horrific deeds being committed was incredibly moving.

I really like how you chose to play the witches as a whole ensemble and how they seemed to morph out of the earth like strange creatures surrounding Macbeth. There were some other lovely moments of support from the ensemble too where you used gesture and voice to echo the emotions and thoughts of the characters, the inspection and cleansing of the hands was an effective motif which you repeated. I also thought you created the party really well, there was such great focus from everyone.

Your characters were relatable, with real depth, believable relationships, and a mature portrayal of their emotions. I love how you made more of the character of Fleance and the choice you made to have them as a cheeky teenager, able to add ironic commentary on Macbeth's greedy rise to power.

This was an enthralling, sophisticated production of Macbeth from an innovative and dedicated company.

We're thrilled to have reimagined Shakespeare with you this year and have loved being with you on your journey from classroom to stage. We can't wait to work with Chulmleigh Community College again in the next Festival!

We would love you to support this event by donating your own cakes, cookies or traybakes from home!

The event is being organised by Ziggy Tyler, Year 9 pupil, who has chosen to raise funds for people in Uganda living in extreme poverty and hunger. The scheme aims to raise funds to provide families with a goat which will produce approximately 2 offspring every 6 months. When they reach 4 months, the first pair of offspring will be given to a new family - so the cycle continues.

Getting too big for your boots..?

Do you have any old but serviceable equipment you'd be willing to donate for the use of our pupils? Getting kitted out for poor weather conditions on Dartmoor isn't cheap, and we want to make sure that every child who wants to take part in these activities is able to do so, whatever their circumstances. You can help that to happen.

If you have any outgrown boots, spare rucksacks gathering dust, waterproof jackets that are now too small, anything like that, please consider donating them to us. We want to ensure that no child decides not to get involved because of the cost.

If you have anything you'd be willing to donate, please email us at

Volunteering at the Royal Albert Memorial Museum (RAMM), Exeter

This summer at RAMM explore the ways people have moved through spaces, venturing across centuries and continents – from the grind of the daily commute to once-in-a-lifetime journeys across the globe, human ingenuity has found a way to travel by land, air, and water.

Discover the impact our transport choices can have on the environment around us and the wider issue of climate change and consider what the future of transport in Exeter might look like.

This exhibition will explore how transport has developed over the centuries and the people and events which have shaped it, as told through objects in RAMM's collections.

What

Come and join the volunteer team at RAMM as a Transport exhibition guide.

We are looking for people from 15 years of age and above who will welcome, engage, and assist visitors to enjoy this original RAMM exhibition.

The exhibition will be a combination of unique objects, such as a sled from Captain Scott's ill-fated 1911-12 expedition to the Antarctic, parachute material made by local firm Heathcoat Fabrics, which played a crucial role in NASA's 2020 mission to Mars, as well as travelling outfits, artworks, vehicles, and transport ephemera. The exhibition is set to delight children and adults of all ages!

When

The time commitment for 15–17-year-olds for this role is a minimum of 2.5 hours weekly for 6 weeks. If you are available for 10 weeks then that is great, but we understand you may be restricted to just the summer holiday period.

If you are successful in your application, you will be offered a pre-booked weekly slot, based on your availability, with the option to choose additional/alternative volunteer shifts when you just want to have even more fun or cannot make your usual time, or need to take time out for a family holiday.

About You

The opportunity is open to anyone 15 years of age and over. As with all our roles, we welcome applications from our globally diverse community.

You should possess good communication and listening skills, and the ability to work as part of a team.

The Role

The role of volunteer Exhibition Guide is to interact with visitors and make them welcome. It is anticipated there will be variety of questions and reactions that people will have about the content of the material, and we will train you to assist them. You will also help to keep the exhibits safe and encourage visitors to have fun in the play zone.

This role relates specifically to our summer 2024 exhibition with the option to continue volunteering in other available roles at RAMM once it closes. The available shifts will be 10:30 to 13:00 and 13:00 to 15:30, excluding Mondays and Bank Holidays when the museum is closed.
